2. The "New Look" in Regulations. During this period, this staff again gave special attention to the program to revise the published regulatory issuances with the objective of limiting the content of regulations to policy, authority and responsibility, deleting unnecessary portions (such as repetitive definitions), and eliminating all detailed procedures for publication in handbook form. This "new look" in regulatory issuances will result in shortening the majority of regulations, completely eliminating some, and combining the essentials of several related regulations into a single regulation thus creating fewer and shorter regulations to coordinate and publish. We have completed our review of the regulations and have submitted recommendations to the four (4) large contributors of regulations (Security, Comptroller, Personnel, and Logistics). In addition, numerous conferences have been held with these offices on this matter.

3. Confidential Funds Regulations. Incorporation or rescission of Confidential Funds Regulations in the Agency regulatory system is now 85 percent complete (as compared to 57 percent completed on 1 May 1957). Of the remaining CFR's, all have been assigned for action to incorporate them into new regulations, with the exception of [redacted] Overt Activities, which will probably remain in effect until all other CFR's are rescinded.

4. Elimination of Old CIA Regulations.

Headquarters -

Incorporation or rescission of the old CIA headquarters regulations in the Agency regulatory system is now 74 percent complete (as compared to 67 percent completed on 1 May 1957). Of the remaining regulations in the old format, all have been assigned for action to incorporate them in the new regulatory system.

5. Conversion of Old Notices.

Of the 79 notices which carried no expiration date, 16 have been rescinded, 27 are proposed for rescission by [redacted] 28 are assigned for conversion or incorporation into regulations or handbooks. The remaining 14, which must be assigned for action, are the result of [redacted] nonconcurrence in proposed rescissions and insertion of expiration dates. This staff will immediately initiate action to require incorporation or conversion of these notices into regulations or handbooks.
